PASTOR BRETT JENKINS

Born on October 3, 1969, in Trenton, New Jersey, Pr. Brett spent most of his young life in Hummelstown, Pennsylvania, outside of Hershey. He grew up largely outside the church, his parents ceasing to attend while he was in early elementary school.

During college, he became convinced of God's existence and began a spiritual quest to discover the truth about God. After carefully considering the truth claims of most of the world's great religions, and after reading many books, he became convinced of the historicity of the resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth and became a Christian.

In addition to his calling within ministry Pr. Brett enjoys woodworking, fishing, playing his guitar, and talking with people about their faith questions.

Is there a real God who loves me? Did Jesus really come back to life? Why should I trust a God when life is so messy? These doubts and more are what people have about the Christian faith. The disciple Thomas asked many questions of doubt. How can his questions of doubt and interactions with Jesus guide students today? Winter Thaw's theme of Trust in the Midst of Doubt will tackle this topic. Join other students to learn how to manage questions and doubts that you may have.
